November 1st, 2013 - KMBR Architects Planners Inc. is proud to celebrate the career of Principal George Boorman, who will be retiring at the end of 2013.

George Boorman, M.Sc., P.Eng., FEC, BEP, joined KMBR in 1989, bringing to the firm his post-secondary training and experience in construction management, building science and civil engineering. Over the years George's role evolved from full-time construction contract administrator to being KMBR's principal-in-charge of Office Management with senior level responsibilities for project management, construction phase services, building envelope design, and constructability reviews on hundreds of projects.

"Although it would be impossible to recall every detail of my work at KMBR", George says, "there will be constant reminders of situations and experiences that will trigger some sense of having contributed to the wellbeing and success of many of my peers and working associates, be they employees, consultants, or clients".

"I'm proud of the years I spent working in collaboration with many folk who I've come to know and trust as friends", George continues, "I've had the incredible opportunity of working on many significant works of architecture during these years. Each time I see one of these projects, it opens a complete chapter of memories."

George has been a KMBR Principal since 1991.
